TRACKER STORY

There is nothing better than hunting together!

Humans have always hunted together; taking down big mammoths wouldn't have been possible without teamwork. And our hairy ancestors had one thing in common with hunters of today – they could communicate.

Probably more like grunting, but enough to coordinate a dangerous hunt and to share some hunting stories around the fire at night. Their skills evolved and a big break for hunting happened – humans learned how to communicate with dogs. They became best friends; hunters got a new teammate and hunting changed forever.

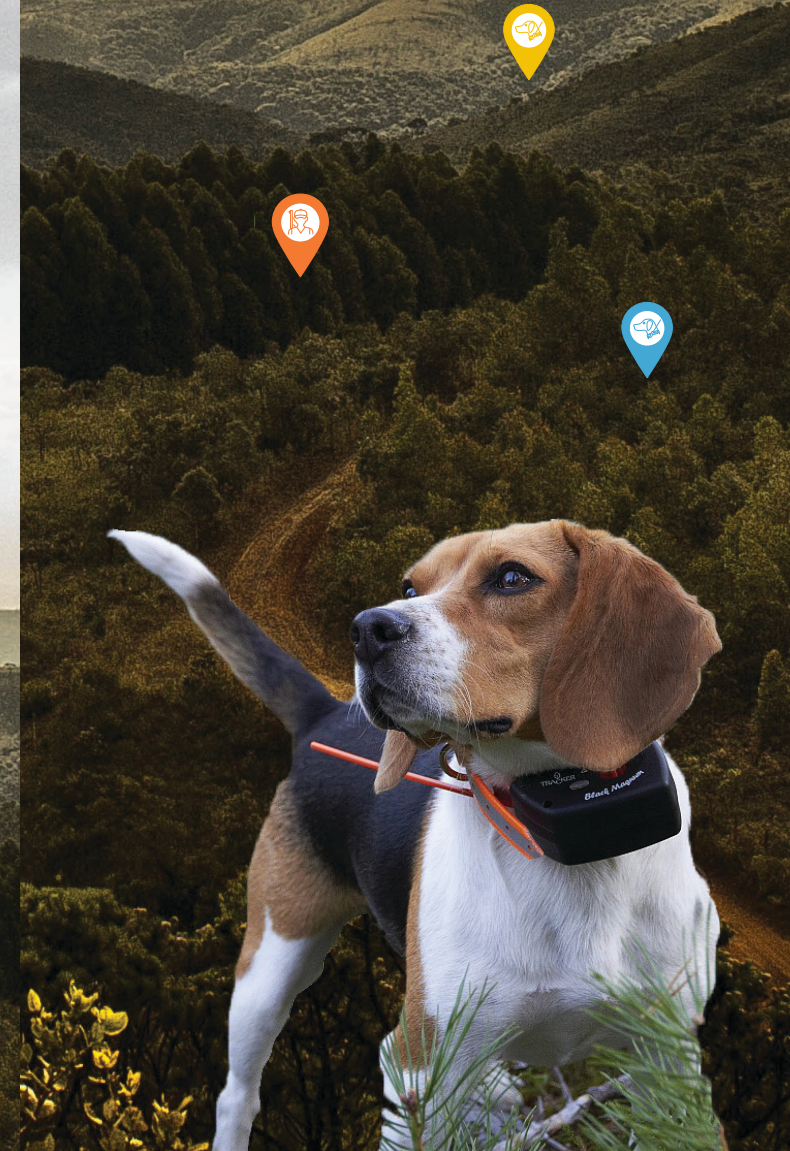

Some 15.000 years later progress had continued, and hunters learned how to communicate with a new strange species – The engineer. The engineers had ideas about using mobile phones as a way of connecting hunters with their dogs, and hunters with other hunters.

Back in 1977 some Finnish engineers and hunters teamed up to found Tracker. they made reality of ideas and once again changed hunting forever. Tracker is the leading company in mobile positioning systems between hunters, but the journey has only started.

At Tracker we continue to innovate, and we strive to make the best mobile social platform, with the easiest and most reliable possible connection within a hunting team – so that everybody gets the best hunting experience and never loose contact.
